EST POINT.

The rain con es to fall. Every day we have a heavy s ver. We fear, if it continues much longe e will have to record the harvesting of largest hay crop that was ever heard of.—On the 14th of July, Gen. A. C. Garling of Atlanta, will deliver an oration at the est Point College. General Ga lington is an of fine intellect, and as an orator he h few equals.——A grand concert will be gi at the College on the evening of the 14th July for the benefit of the West Point ba . It promises to be a loud affair.——Cro t is developing the West Point feet, an exercising the minds of all the coming eration, and a good many of the genera n that has already got there.——A runaw couple from the country came into town on t Monday, and inquired where they could fi the "Squire." An accommodating squire as at length found, the young couple made ne, and they departed happy.——Tommy drunken Irishman of West Point, got on spree last week, and laid him down to sl on the Western Railroad about a mi from town. Pat's sleep was hardly a s ess. A train came along and the engine al two freight boxes passed over him. Pat's ead was too hard to mash, but he lost sev l locks of hair on a few square inches of s which were carried off on the wheels to member him by.—News.

A West oint man has invented a way by which goa can be prevented from jumping over fence What the plan is does not appear, but e are satisfied that the end could be accomplished either by cutting off the goat's leg r tearing down the fences.

The fe ve spirits of West Point amuse themselve during these sultry days, by administerin a liberal supply of limber jack to the spotted and yellow-legged dogs at came in from the country. It is remarkable what an impetus can be given to the movements of a country dog by slight application of this medicine, and as he usually moves with his tail towards town, th sports consider their plan a high success.

"Wonder if we cant' prevaill on Whidby of THE CONSTITUTION to come down to Commencement? Better come Whidby. Viola and Ell will be here."——Whidby is sorely oppressed just now with bashfulness and a failure appreciate his own merits. Send an invitation to the Editor of this column. He is a single man, and open to all reasonable propositions.

BRUNSWICK.

Several old salts and a few "land lubbers," got into a general "skrimage" in Battle Row on Saturday last. Casualties, a few black eyes and some wool pulling. A small show with a large woman, the learned pig, and other popular delusions is concentrating the loose shinplasters of Brunswick. It is expected that a Savannah firm will shortly commence a large and new lumber business in Brunswick. It is rumored that a certain married gentleman of Brunswick, who left his wife to take care of the children while he went to the dance, now has his head in light summer costume. On Tuesday night there was a public installation of the officers elect of Seaport Lodge No. 68 I. O. O. F. Dancing and general jollification made the hours fly.——Clarence Fort, a convicted murderer, who escaped from the Sheriff while being conveyed to jail a few weeks ago, has been again captured. Clarence fell a victim to woman's charms. He was in the habit of leaving the swamp to visit his sweetheart, and was caught by the Sheriff and his posse returning from one of these visits. The next time he escapes it is thought he will carry the jail with him. Appeal.

The editor of the Seaport Appeal had a call last week from a young friend whose marriage notice he had recently published. The young friend looked as one who mourns, and not without cause. He had one black eye and one blue eye. His straggling locks presented an appearance suggestive of something very different a brush. He says he thought brooms were made to sweep floors with, and that to adjust one's head with a smoothing iron, is neither good for the hair or comfortable to the wearer. Who would'nt be married?

ROME.

The mortality in Rome for the past month of June, is only one white person and seven negroes. This shows a very healthy condition of the city.——The July fights opened in Rome Saturday night. Harrison Watters and Ed. Graves, white, fired several pistol shots at each other. Nobody hit. Ed. McKenzie and Green Bohanan, (colored,) fought about a pair of shoes. A tolerable sized rock wound up both the fight and Ed's physical activity for some hours. Green has departed. Joe Tailor corrected his wife with a switch four inches through. Joe repents in the calaboose.—Commercial.

The Rome Commercial say that, "for six months, ending June 30th, 1873, there has not been a fire, or even an alarm of fire," in that happy town. Now this may be true We don't take it upon ourselves to say that it is not. We know that the Romans, generally, are pretty tough, and impervious to all ordinary atmospheric changes, but to go through half a winter without a fire is hard to swallow. The man who could have done it in Atlanta would have made a fortune.

GREENVILLE.

Isham Harrison, near the Warm Springs, sends us a cotton bloom pulled on the 24th. William Freeman, near Greenville, sends us two blooms pulled about the same time, while a friend reports a boll seen a week since on the farm of J. C. Anderson. Generally cotton looks well and is nearly clear of grass. Vindicator.

A Girl's Advice to Her Sex—No Nonsense About It.

DEAR GIRLS.—Don't do anything that you will look back on from the maturer age of thirty and wish you hadn't. Don't do anything, no matter how long you have been engaged to a man, that when you marry you will regret. Your husband will respect you all the more, if you have always been true to yourself during his courtship. Time enough for the kisses and the "loving clasps" will come after marriage, and will be enjoyed all the more for true purity of thought and deed. And if the engagement should happen to get broken, it will save many annoying thoughts, if not words, to know that it is impossible for some man for whom you care nothing for then to boast of familiarities from you. These young men who are willing to draw out these little, caressing, familiar acts that in themselves contain nothing impure, must possess impure minds, and imagined license from pleasure, will, sooner or later, with some one venture more, you may depend. Your careless words and actions may inflame his passions, and presently some one falls, and can you say but that it is partly your fault? No doubt it is very pleasant to be supported in your evening walk, or ride, by the arm of your dear Augustus, or to lean your head to rest on his convenient shoulder, holding his hand, and give him a parting kiss, but as sure as you have to be ten years older, you will be sorry that you did it. Then consider one thing more. In the strength of your virtue, did you ever think some weaker sister may see or know of the act, and thinking if you do so, it cannot be improper? The consequence is that some one takes advantage of her weakness, and she is lost. Oh, girls, we must blame our own selves for some of this great evil! Do be thoughtful and avoid any action self-respect calls doubtful.—Ashtabula Sentinel.

THE RHETT-COOLEY DUEL!

Mail Details of the Killing of Judge Cooley by the Editor of the New Orleans Picayune.

Statement of an Eye-Witness.

New Orleans Times, July 2 ]

At half-past 12 o'clock yesterday the community was startled with the report that, two hours before, Judge Wm. A. Cooley, in a duel with Col. R. Barnwell Rhett, Jr., fought at Montgomery Station, on the line of the New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, had been shot through the body and almost instantly killed. But a few minutes were required to confirm the report, and half an hour later a Times' special, giving minute particulars, told the story to thousands.

Col. George W. Carter and Mr. R. McRea Selph were selected as the seconds of Judge Cooley, Col. Rhett being represented by Col. Charles Roman, his brother-in-law, and Dr. Burns, formerly of Charleston, S. C.

Judge Cooley, thoroughly engrossed in his legal business, and contrary, we learn, to the earnest solicitation of his seconds, made no preparation whatever. He had been suffering somewhat severely with an injured foot, and according to the same story required all of the time not necessarily devoted to business, for rest. Col. Rhett, who is reported as an excellent marksman, we hear devoted some time to practice, making, we are told, some excellent shots.

STATEMENT OF AN EYE WITNESS.

I found Judge Cooley seated in a chair in the baggage car with his coat off. His foot was disabled from a nail which grew into the flesh of his toe. He appeared to be most cheerful, and was talking in his usual jocose vein, I think with Mr. Victor Gerodias.

Colonel Rhett was seated in one of the passenger coaches, conversing with a gentleman near him. He seemed quiet and most self-possessed, but did not apparently have a great deal to say. The friends of both gentlemen—I use the word not in its technical sense, but mean gentlemen friendly to each—were scattered throughout the train, but nothing in the manner of any of them indicated that anything unusual was about to occur. From the general bearing of the passengers—although there were not a great number upon the train—I would suppose them to have been quite ignorant of the deadly mission, as the subject did not seem to be a subject of conversation.

The vicinity of Montgomery station is a broad stretch of low, level land, sparsely populated and filled with pine trees, not, however, so thickly as to obstruct the view. There is but one habitation in the neighborhood, a one-story, unpainted frame building, to the left of the road looking toward Mobile. This and the station-house, a small similar building to the others along the route, were the only edifices of any character in the vicinage.

THE SCENE.

When the train stopped twelve or fifteen persons descended; I am not personally acquainted with all. They seemed to be friends of the two gentlemen, but a majority came more in the capacity of spectators. Upon their landing it was intimated quietly by one of the seconds that, according to the terms of the agreement, no one but those immediately interested should be admitted to the ground, and of course, in obedience to this suggestion, a majority remained quietly at the station-house.

The party brought with them two colored servants who carried two sets of double barreled shot guns, the ammunition and other accoutrements.

They moved to a spot between eighty and one hundred yards distant from the station, and about twenty yards to the right of the road, that is, on the side nearest the Mississippi Sound, which is probably a mile and a half away. The site chosen is an ordinary strip of piney woods land, with little or no peculiar characteristics. Upon a toss Judge Cooley won the word and choice of position.

And very shortly afterward Colonel Rhett was placed by his second with his back to the railroad, and, as seemed to me, near a pine tree. Judge Cooley was placed forty yards distant, with his back to Colonel Rhett. Two of the seconds then occupied positions facing each other and equi-distant between the two contestants, but outside of the line of fire. The other seconds, I think, took positions near their principals, but I was so deeply interested in watching the others that I did not particularly observe them.

The two gentlemen stood gazing at each other with the breeches of their shot guns drawn up to their shoulder, and the muzzles pointed to the ground, while Dr. Burns, in a clear and audible voice, read the articles of agreement which had been previously signed by the seconds. The doctor took some little time in explaining clearly what was required of each, and seemingly was very desirous that no possible mistake should occur.

So excited did I become, that I did not catch the exact words used, but my impression is the doctor cried,

"ARE YOU READY? FIRE! ONE, TWO, THREE, HALT."

At the words "are you ready," both weapons were slightly elevated, and at the word "fire," they were brought to a level, and between the words "one" and "halt," both weapons were discharged.

Judge Cooley, I think, fired at the word "one," but Col. Rhett's weapon was seemingly hard on the trigger, and was discharged between the words "one and "two."

Neither party being hurt, the friends of Col. Rhett demanded another shot, which was promptly accorded, and the seconds at once reloaded the pieces.

THE DEATH.

At the second discharge, the same formula was repeated, and both guns were simultaneously discharged.

With a convulsive turn to the left, Judge Cooley fell.

The friends and spectators, who in the meantime had remained at the station, now approached. The seconds of both parties proclaimed the fact that everything had been conducted in strict accordance with the terms of the written agreement, and without any attempt at unfairness on either side. Saying this they shook hands and parted.

On behalf of Col. Rhett, his seconds tendered the seconds of Judge Cooley the use of a carriage, but it was declined, and that party retired in the direction of Bay St. Louis.

When I reached Judge Cooley's side I found him lying on his back insensible, and gasping for breath. His face did not appear to be distorted with pain, but he was evidently dying. The ball, a musket-ball, one ounce, 13-100ths of an inch in diameter, penetrated his left side about the region of the heart and ranging upward.

Dr. Holliday was leaning over him, and ice and a little raw cotton were being applied to his wound, but it was evident that all medical aid was useless. He remarked before I reached him to Dr. Holliday, "I'm shot in the breast." These were the last words he spoke. He expired in a very few minutes. A messenger was dispatched to the neighboring house for six yards of cotton cloth, with which they enveloped the body, and it was then borne on a door to the station, where it remained until the train to New Orleans arrived. The duel took place at 30 minutes past 10 o'clock, and the train arrived at 1.

At that time the remains of Judge Cooley were placed in the baggage car. Colonel Rhett and party returned to Montgomery Station at about this time, and they also took the train for the city. The cars stopped opposite the Luzenburg Hospital, when the remains of Judge Cooley were removed to that institution, Colonel Rhett's friends assisting those of the deceased. Colonel Rhett and party stopping at Claiborne street.

Remembering the scene as I do now, I am under the impression that the injury to Judge Cooley's foot placed him at a terrible disadvantage. I observed that he sat down while the seconds were measuring the ground, and I do not think he could bear the weight of his body upon his foot without acute pain. Both gentlemen, however, exhibited the utmost coolness throughout, and not a nervous tremor from first to last could be detected in either.

TATE SPRINGS,

East Tennessee.

TATE SPRINGS are situated in the beautiful and fertile Bean's Station Valley, one and a half miles from Clinch Mountain, and ten miles from Morristown, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad, from which point a daily mail is received. They are surrounded by magnificent mountain scenery, in one of the highest and driest sections in East Tennessee, in the immediate vicinity of Chalybeate, Alum, Red, White and Black Sulphur Waters, and, all things considered, we are bound to acknowledge in this, as in all nature, the superior wisdom of the Creator in locating this inestimable blessing to mankind.

MEANS OF ACCESS.

Arrangements have been made with the principal railroad South for round trip tickets, which may be obtained at all the large cities and towns.

DAILY LINE OF HACKS.

Contracts are made with competent and responsible parties to run a daily line of hacks from Morristown to the Springs. The hacks will be new, and of the most comfortable and modern styles, gotten up expressly for this line. They are to meet all passenger trains at the depot, and look after the comfort and accommodation of all persons passing over their line. The hacks make their trips in day time.

Ladies and families traveling alone will be especially looked after and cared for, and their baggage also.

Hacks leave the Turley House immediately after the arrival of trains. By this means any Express or other packages can be conveyed to or from Morristown to the Springs.

ACCOMMODATIONS.

The accommodations are still being extended, so that we hope to be prepared to entertain all of our guests comfortably. Among the new improvements are—

A spacious Ball Room.
A series of Bath Rooms.
The Grounds are much improved.
A Livery Stable well stocked.

The Proprietors claim to have superior advantages over any preceding season, having all their public rooms ready at the opening of the season, a good stock of supplies on hand, and an experienced class of servants employed.

The rooms are principally cottage, with porches, fire places, and wardrobes or closets.

Good Bowling Alleys for gratuitous use of guests In addition to which we expect to have a Band of Music.

The Proprietors assert their determination to spare no trouble or expense to render guests comfortable and to promote their improvement.

GETTYSBURG KATALYSINE WATER.

THE United States Dispensatory, the authorized record of our Materia Medica, classes this water with the most renowned Alkaline or Carbonated Springs of Europe. It far excels any other known in known in its self-preserving properties. It has never been claimed for any other mineral water the power to dissolve the urates, or so-called chalk formations in the body or on the limbs and joints. This the Gettysburg Katalysine Water has done in hundreds of instances. Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Gravel, Diabetes, Kidneys and Urinary Diseases generally, have all yielded to its influence. It has cured Chronic Diarrhœa, Piles, Constipation, Asthma, Catarrh, Diseases of the Skin, General Debility and Nervous Prostration from Mental and Pysical Excesses. All these by the bottled water. It is a powerful antidote for Excessive Eating and Drinking. It corrects the Stomach, promotes Digestion, and Relieves the Head almost immediately. To CORRESPONDENTS.—We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are indispensable. Rejected communications we cannot undertake either to return or preserve.

ATLANTA:

TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1873.

Public Documents.

General John B. Gordon, United States Senator, has our thanks for the statistics of the wealth and industry of the United States, embracing the tables of wealth, taxation and public indebtedness; of agriculture, manufactures, mining and the fisheries. Compiled from the census of 1870. It is a very valuable book. Also, other valuable public documents.

The Cartersville and Van Wert Railroad.

We learn that the Commercial Warehouse Company of New York, who held most of the bonds of the above railroad company indorsed by Governor Bullock for the State, have purchased nearly all the stock of the road, having bought out the entire interest of Hon. Mark A. Cooper and others.

They have also advanced funds enough to pay off the debts of the road, and will proceed without delay to convert that portion of it which is constructed a narrow guage, to a broad guage road its entire length from Cartersville to Van Wert. The whole management has passed into practical hands, who will put the enterprise upon a good basis.

And we learn with pleasure that the great slate quarries in the vicinity of Van Wert are being extensively opened and profitably worked. The slate is the best in the United States, and equal to the best in the world, while the deposit is by far the largest. This railroad, when completed, will have a good business simply in the transportation of slate.

Brevities.

Bishop Persico, of Savannah, has gone to Canada to become the Vicar-General of the many orders of religieuses in the arch-diocese of Quebec.

A special embassy from Japan has succeeded in negotiating a loan of $12,000,000 from the capitalists of Europe. The chief of the embassy stated in New York that he could easily have obtained ten times that amount.

The Texan cattle are coming again. Sixty thousand head are now at Wachita, Kansas, and one hundred and fifty thousand head are on their way to that point. Wachita is only one of several heavy shipping stations for cattle from the Lone Star State.

Mr. Samuel Barnett, formerly of Washington, Ga., and at present instructor of mathematics in the State Agricultural College, has been elected professor of applied mathematics in the University of Louisiana—the same institution over which Gen. Sherman presided before the war. His salary is $2,000.

An editor says: "An outbreak of brown belts with brass buckles has occurred. They are very pretty. If anything, the buckles are prettier than the belts—brassier, you see. It is worthy of remark that the belts are buckled behind, where, in fact, most of the adornment of the period is distributed. Still buckle and belt are both pretty. We wish we were a brown belt."

The drawing of the Louisville Library lottery begins this morning at 6 o'clock. Governor Bramlette announces the fact that every ticket was sold before Friday of last week, and that the whole number will, therefore, be represented in the wheel. The tickets-holders have disbursed $1,000,000 to secure an unequal distribution among themselves of $500,000. Atlanta holds her share of tickets on the speculation.

The following is a statement of the official postage stamps and stamped envelopes, supplied by the Post Office Department, up to and including June 30, 1873:

|---|---|
| To the President | $ 150 |
| To the State Department | 20,749 |
| To the Treasury Department | 200,000 |
| To the War Department | 17,449 |
| To the Navy Department | 8,599 |
| To the Interior Department | 10,261 |
| To the Department of Justice | 3,750 |
| To the Department of Agriculture | 6,530 |
| To the Post Office Department | 52,3 0 |

The facts of the late New Jersey sensation-suicide are said to be thusly: August Nodler and Edward Buehler, Germans, were in love with an entrancing widow. A third rival stepped in with success, and August and Edward resolved to poison themselves. Off they went to Waverly, armed with a couple of doses of laudanum. August took his and died. Beuhler pretended he took his; but, though he seemed sick, it is believed he touched not the poison.

The European Syndicate promises success. The German government, strictly as a matter of business, has invested $10,000,000 in United States bonds, principally the five per cent. funded loan. Besides, thirteen different railroad companies in this country have been discredited in Europe on account of a non-payment of July interest. In consequence of the failure to pay the interest on railroad bonds the confidence in them has been shaken, and the foreign capitalists who have money to invest, now look to government securities as the safest investment, although they pay a smaller rate of interest.

An editor discussing "colleges" mentions an instance where a far-seeing lawyer proposed to make a great international lawyer of his son, and at Harvard and Heidelberg his whole attention was turned in that direction. He studied law in the best schools of Europe and America, graduated with the highest honors, and is now a wealthy and successful machinist, and plays the organ in church every Sunday—the one valuable remainder of his German schooling. The final product of all this legal and linguistic lore is a gentleman, a mechanic, and a musician, active in all the better paths of life, ripe in scholarship, but not at all a lawyer."

Necessity is the mother of invention. A new fire extinguishing apparatus has been exhibited in Boston. A pipe runs from the basement to the roof, through the center of the building, and each room is supplied with a suitable amount of hose, which, in case of fire, is attached to the valve leading into that room, and a stream of water is soon brought to bear upon the flames, the motive power being a force pump in the basement, which in manufactories may be worked by steam. In case of fire a bell is struck, which warns the engineer to set he pumps at work. This pump, in the establishment in which the experiments were tried, has the capacity of forcing 600 gallons to the minute. Two lines of hose, one fifty feet in length and the other one hundred, were run into the street, and streams of water forced through them reached over 200 feet horizontally, and perpendicularly from 20 to 30 feet above the building, which is 95 feet high. The trial was thought to be successful.

THE CIRCULATION BUSINESS.

A Public Test Demanded.

The press of Georgia and the people of this city know that we have not provoked any controversy on the subject of newspaper circulation, but have been quiet under loud, incessant and most pointed boasts of superiority in this respect. But at last our silence was misconstrue by some, and we determined at once to settle the point. We called for a public test, and deposited a forfeit with the Hon. John H. James, to go to the Library Association, if we failed to establish our claim to the largest circulation. No one dared to take up the gauntlet. We extended the time, and still our offer for a public test is not accepted. We now leave with Mr. James one thousand dollars as a forfeit (which everybody understands is no bet,) to the Library Association, if we fail to establish all our propositions. They refer to the circulation of the DAILY as well as to that of both daily and weekly. The time for words has ceased. Words are idle, in the face of a demand for a public test. A forfeit is asked only to insure good faith. A legal investigation is asked that everything shall be fairly and squarely done. A public trial is asked that the people may see that THE CONSTITUTION has about DOUBLE the circulation of any other paper in this section. We know what we are about. Taking the published figures of the number of copies issued by another journal as correct, our paper bills will show nearly double their own estimate.

The public cannot possibly misunderstand this matter. Words and boasts are nothing. But we dare anyone to give us the opportunity to prove before the citizens of Atlanta, by the books, by Messrs. McNaught and Ormond, and by other means, that the circulation of THE CONSTITUTION is vastly greater than any other.

Cholera.

The reappearance of this plague, with its usual fearful ravages, in Nashville and other cities during the present season, is at this time exciting, perhaps, more general public interest than any other subject. For this reason we think it proper, or at least not inappropriate, to submit to our readers some observations upon it, which, if they contain no useful or practical information, may yet not be altogether out of place.

"ASIATIC CHOLERA," then, as we understand from the very highest medical authorities, is a totally different disease from "CHOLERA MORBUS" as known in this country and in Europe, and the presence of the latter in any place should not create any alarm as to the former. Both are very dangerous diseases, and though similar in many respects in their symptoms, yet the vital organs which they attack are totally distinct, and they are in no way connnected in origin or effect. The former directs its forces against the digestive organs, while the latter strikes chiefly at the nervous system, with its wonderful combinations in the secretory functions.

The latter, only, is epidemic, and has been known in Asia, from which it derives its name, for many centuries. It never made its appearance out of Asia until about 1830. The great plague of this character bearing the name, Asiatic Cholera, which has since traveled over the world as "the angel of Death," originated in the Delta of the Ganges, in 1817. It gradually and slowly made its progress westward, during several years, spreading northward and southward. In 1831, it reached and extended over most of Central Europe, and got as far as England on its march in the month of October of that year. In March, 1832, it broke out in Paris and spread rapidly over France. On the 8th of June, same year, (1832) it first appeared on this continent, at Quebec; on the 10th, at Montreal; on the 21st, in New York City, and soon afterwards made its appearance in several other places, in different directions, as at Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, Cincinnati, St. Louis and New Orleans reaching the latter place in October. It produced great consternation in its desolating march, from the frightful number of victims who fell under its power. The per centum of those attacked who survived, ranged in different places at from forty to fifty. The greatest mortality on record which we have seen was that at St. Petersburgh, in Russia, in 1832, where the number of those attacked, who died, was 58 in 100.

This monster epidemic reappeared in the United States in 1834, but in a much less malignant form. It has also reappeared several times since, showing its greatest malignity, perhaps, in Nashville, in 1866, as it has thus far in 1872. The mortality from cholera in Nashville, in 1866, as we have seen stated, was near three per cent. of the entire population. The mortality at other places has been as high as five per cent. of the population.

Great uncertainty and mystery exists as to the cause of this disease. On this point a very high authority asserts that "the air has been tortured in vain to reveal the secret; no sidereal, telluric, magnetic, electric, or appreciable atmospheric changes have been satisfactorily connected with its endemic or epidemic appearance; animalcular and fungus growths have been equally unable to account for it. * * * * But there are certain predisposing causes which doubtless favor its propagation, such as personal and public uncleanliness, errors in diet, drunkeness, and misery, fear, which always exists during fatal epidemics, in this instance amounting to cholerafobia, impresses many with the idea of drugging, who thereby render themselves mentally and physically more liable to its attack." [See Appleton's cyclopedia, article cholera.]

The same high authority is equally emphatic on another interesting point in connection with this subject, and that is, its contagiousness. In reference to this mooted question, the language used is in these words: "Unprofessional people are prone to believe in contagion, and most persons perhaps think that cholera is contagious; physicians even once were divided in their opinions on this point, but probably at the present time (1859) very few could be found who would maintain its contagiousness. When great numbers of persons are exposed to the same epidemic influence, the idea of contagion is the most natural one to account for the occurrence of many cases in a limited district; but the whole history of the progress of cholera for the last forty years shows conclusively that, though endemic and epidemic, it is not a contagious disease. Some courageous physicians have gone so far as to inoculate themselves with the blood, bile, and discharges of patients in every stage of the disease, and without any ill consequences. The history of cholera has afforded some of the noblest instances of self-sacrifice and heroic devotion to duty on the part of physicians and clergymen; at times when fathers deserted their children, when dearest friends dared not approach the house of death, the physician and the clergyman fearlessly discharged their duty carrying physical and spiritual relief to the suffering and the dying; when even the watchmen have fled the city, the noble men of these professions have remained."

The above extracts, though long, we deem exceedingly appropriate for due consideration at the present time. One or two more remarks on the general subject we have to submit for the special attention of the people of Atlanta as well as those of the entire interior portion of the State of Georgia. We have had no serious apprehensions of the appearance of Asiatic cholera in this section of country for the last ten or fifteen years. This exemption from such apprehension has arisen from a fact of our own observation on the progress and course of this diesease in all its appearances in this country from 1832 to 1856, and that is, that in none of these appearances has it ever visited, epidemically, any section of country known as belonging, geologically, to the primitive or primary formation. It has been confined in its ranges entirely to the secondary, tertiary, and alluvial formations. In all the past visitations of cholera we have never heard of a case originating in this State, or any other section of country belonging to primary formation.

How it may be in the future, of course no one can venture a positive opinion, for the real cause of this terrible disease is among the unsolved mysteries of nature. We mean only to express the reason which has induced us not to indulge in any serious apprehensions of its visiting this section of country. Still, we would advise all proper precautionary and sanitary measures, especially in our cities, against its approach. A. H. S.

THE WALWORTH VERDICT.

What Charles O'Conor Says of the Course Now to be Taken.

Mr. Charles O'Conor, when asked yesterday by the writer what action counsel would take in the Walworth case, said:

"Well, I don't know; it's difficult to say."

"Will not a bill of exceptions be drawn up and presented to the Court on Saturday next, when young Walsworth appears for sentence?"

"Oh, no. It is not certain that a bill of exceptions will be presented at all. In any case it isn't to be drawn up by that time. Judge Davis said something about a month hence being set down for such a hearing."

"Were you satisfied with the verdict?"

"Not by any means. Why, of course, I expected an acquittal."

"What does young Walworth think of the verdict?"

"Why, poor boy, what can he think. It was like applying a spark to powder, and it would be just as sensible to send the spark to State prison for life because the powder exploded. Here, he had always carried a pistol when meeting his father; and, half asleep at the time, who can be surprised at what occurred."

"And how does the Walworth family feel, sir?"

"They're a wonderful family. I knew nothing of them until I was called into the case. And Mrs. Walworth—she's a wonderful, she's a splendid woman. She would stand by if it were necessary and see her boy changed without shedding a tear; and yesterday she heard the verdict without flinching. Such a verdict could have no effect on a woman like Mrs. Walworth. If the jury had acquitted Frank, then she would have wept, but not in any other case."

"Well, sir, no action has yet been taken with reference to a bill of exceptions."

"No, we've had no time, even if one is presented. Mr. Beach is away in Albany, and besides, nothing of the sort will be done on Saturday."

"Will you tell me, sir, why you asked that sentence might be deferred until Saturday?"

"Well, now, if I am going to be hanged, of course I want all the time I can get to make my will and do other matters of the kind."

"But young Walworth is not to be hanged!"

"Of course not; but if a man is going to be imprisoned for life, it is no good to hurry matters."

THE KIMBALL HOUSE, ATLANTA, GA.—Editors CONSTITUTION: I am an old man and a great traveler. It was my pleasure to-day, in passing through your beautiful city, to register at the magnificent Kimball House, and never in my life have I ever been so agreeably surprised. The inmates of this house are all happy, I'm sure, for there is nothing left undone that would make them otherwise. The Kimball can certainly boast of the superior accommodations, and the prompt attention to the comfort of guests. Col. Nichols is one of the most energetic and clever gentlemen I have met in my travels. He is the right man in the right place, and for the information of the travelling public, I would be glad if you would give this a place in your columns. Whenever I visit Atlanta, I shall always feel safe and happy under the care of the Colonel.

J. A. WARNER.

ATLANTA, GA, July 4th, 1873.—Editors Constitution: The following report of the sexton was submitted to day, which shows an increased mortality over previous months. Unfortunately for our city there is no law or ordinance requiring physicians to report the causes of death, and hence that feature will not be found in the sexton's report. In other cities of any importance this requirement is made, and I have penned a resolution to that effect, which will be presented to Council to-night. I trust it will be adopted at this time, particularly as everybody is anxious to know the exact sanitary status of Atlanta.

MORTUARY REPORT.

|---|---|
| Whites, over ten years | 10 |
| Colored, over ten years | 22 |
| Whites, under ten years | 35 |
| Colored, under ten years | 45 |
| Total for June | 112 |
| Of the above number there were | |
| White paupers | 4 |
| Colored paupers | 31 |
| White, still-born | 3 |
| Colored, still-born | 5 |

Now, as to the cause of this increased mortality it is impossible for me to determine as the diseases are not given. As far, however, as cholera is concerned I will say that no case has yet been reported to the Board. The public shall be advised on the subject when the occasion arises.

To the citizens of Atlanta I will say that the time is upon them when each individual should make it a matter of private as well as public interest to exert himself in behalf of hygienic principles—which means that he should see to it that his premises are kept clean of all offensive matter; and that no food should be allowed, of any character, except it be sound.

I regret to learn that the community is not responding to the ordinance relative to the cleaning of privies, and while I consider existing laws inadequate, they will, if properly observed, go far towards saving us from the perils that encompass our city.

The Board to-day passed the following resolution to which the attention of His Honor, the Recorder, is most respectfully invited, to-wit:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Board the Marshal, and the officers working under him, have done all in their power to abate all nuisances in the city; but it is also the opinion of the Board that the Recorder should exercise his functions more energetically towards the abatement of such nuisances as, from time to time, may be reported. The Board therefore requests His Honor, the Recorder, to bring delinquents to prompt justice, to the end that the laws may be upheld, and the health of the city preserved.

CHAS. PINCKNEY, M. D.,
Chm'n Board of Health.

Citizens' Meeting.

Yesterday in accordance with previous notice a number of citizens met in the Hall of the Chamber of Commerce.

On motion, J. H. James was called to the Chair and Major J. F. Edwards requested to act as Secretary.

On taking the chair Mr. James stated that the floating debt of Atlanta was large and merchants were depressed by it. Every good citizen should bear his part of the burden without murmuring. It was necessary to tax high to meet the demands upon us. The City Council he considered competent to act for the best interests of the city. The Council should be taught that they must raise the tax to a point that will meet our demands. Improvements were necessary and should be paid for.

Mr. A. J. McBride said that wholesale and retail dealers both were burthened by the new tax ordinance. Many of the heaviest tax payers would resist it. A return to the old tax law, or even increasing to one-half was preferable to the new tax act.

He offered the following:

Whereas, The second section of the tax ordinance as reported by the Tax Committee of the City Council for 1873 is very unsatisfactory to the merchants and business men of Atlanta, inasmuch as it makes many of them pay a high rate of tax on two to four times as much as they are worth; therefore,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to go before the Mayor and Council and respectfully request them to repeal said second section and re-enact the tax of ¼ of 1 per cent. on all sales and receipts as heretofore.

Mr. J. Norcross thought the ad valorem the only right and legal mode.

Mr. B. E. Crane said that ad valorem was right, but to tax solvent debts was wrong. The capital stock should alone be taxed.

Mr. W. A. Moore, of Moore & Marsh, preferred the tax on sales, but if ad valorem was adopted, he wanted the capital employed alone taxed.

Major Crane offered as a substitute for the resolution that the City Council be requested to tax only the capital stock employed.

After remarks by Mr. Dunn, the substitute was adopted, and the meeting adjourned.

[OFFICIAL.]

Commencement Lucy Cobb Institute.

Junior Exhibition Tuesday—The Concert-Commencement Day—Awarding The Prizes—The Entertainment—Condition of the Institute.

ATHENS, GA., July 31, 1873.

I cannot resist the temptation to fill a sheet of paper relative to the Commencement Exercises of the Lucy Cobb Institute, where burning lipped Corianna's, Leila's of Byron, and dewy-eyed Madonna's, gave unmistakeable evidences of the superior degree of culture imparted by the accomplished teachers of the Institute. Not only were the proceedings in general highly creditable, but the musical as well as the literary performances were of the highest order.

THE JUNIOR EXHIBITION

was witnessed, on Tuesday, by a very large and highly cultivated audience. The following was the order of the day: "My Vision of the Lucy Cobb Institute," by Miss Eugenia Long, of Athens. "Time," by Miss Nettie La Salles, of Athens. "Hope springs eternal in the human breast. Man never is, but always to be blest," Miss Annie Pope, of Meriwether county. "What's in a name?" Miss Minnie Hunter, of Washington. "Ideas," Miss Gertrude Matthews, Lexington. "Motto," Miss Mary Bishop, of Athens. "Do Heaven and Earth speak?" Miss Emma Hart, of Union Point.

While the manners of these young ladies were abundantly graceful, they were entirely free from the slightest appearance of study or affectation. The essays all exhibited a degree of culture that would compare most favorably with any of the educational institutions of our State.

THE CONCERT TUESDAY NIGHT

was a success. A large and highly appreciative audience greeted the Euterpean Society, who were kindly aided by Miss Keith, of Athens, Mr. Van Goldtsnoven, of Atlanta, and Mr. Stovall, of Augusta. There was soon a mutual understanding between hearers and artists, consequently the latter were all on their mettle, and they fulfilled the obligations imposed in splendid style.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

Long before the hour of exercises a large and refined audience, represented by beauty, culture and fashion, assembled at the hall, presenting a beautiful and variegated sight of bright eyes, smiling faces, gay hues and brilliant colors. The arrangements of the stage and hall and the ornamentation exhibited a taste and careful elaboration that was deserving of of the highest credit.

Rev. Mr. Lane, of the Presbyterian Church of Athens, made the opening prayer for the continued blessing of God upon the institution and its inmates. The following was the programme for the day:

Miss Basaline Prince, Athens—"French Salutatory."

Miss Eliza Newton, Athens—"Whatever Exalts, Ennobles, Embellishes, or renders life delightful is the result of Industry."

Miss Laura Speer, Athens—"A man to thrive must ask leave of his wife."

Miss Carrie Scudder, Athens—"The Love of the Beautiful."

Miss Rosa Summey, Ashville, N. C.—"Let us not despair at failure, but take up life's duties with new energy."

Miss Ryna Stanford, Sparta—"Poetry and Painting—Twin Sisters."

Miss Lula Phinizy, Athens—"God writes the music of our lives—in strains of rare completeness."

Miss Minnie Moss, Athens—"Echoes."

Miss Addie Bingham, LaGrange—"Who? Where is the Modest Man?"

Miss Belle Stevens, Bairdstown—Valedictory—"Old Time will end our Story, but no time, if we end well, will end our glory."

The essays were all exceedingly well written, evincing much thought, and elicited the warm approbation of the audience. The valedictory of Miss Stevens concluded the proceedings in the happiest possible manner. Her whole exterior bespoke the sprightliness and energy of her character, and the style of her composition did as much honor to the thorough education given at the Institute, as the affecting sentiments expressed did to the winning kindness of her instructresses.

THE PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS

in a graceful manner by Professor P. A. Heard, a gentleman of experience and fine culture, was highly satisfactory.

THE MEDALS AND PRIZES

were happily delivered by Major Lamar Cobb, in a neat and appropriate address. As one of the trustees he takes a deep interest in the Institute, and is much encouraged at its success.

The senior medal for scholarship was equally shared by Miss Prince and Miss Speer, both of Athens.

The junior medal was awarded Miss Annie Pope, of Meriwether county.

The Sophomore medal was given Miss Jeannie Stoval, and the Fresh medal to Miss Ida Dorsey, of Athens.

Honorary mention was made of several of the young ladies; also, prizes were awarded for deportment. The art of accepting honors is well understood at the Lucy Cobb. Nothing can equal the easy unaffected way in which the young ladies received their rewards. It is no small part of feminine education to be able to conduct themselves with such graceful propriety.

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

was by Rev. Dr. Milburn. As a speaker it is well known that he possesses all the fire and enthusiasm which engage the popular sympathies. On this occasion his address was chaste in beauty, rich in thought, and graceful in sentiment and expression.

ENTERTAINMENT.

When "Babel" was broken up its topmost detachment must have moved "en masse," and founded a girl's school—at any rate so thought the many University students, as well as the many friends and parents who assembled at the Lucy Cobb Wednesday night. At least there was a confused, but not unmusical murmur of conversation, with an occasional burst of sweet laughter continually going on from hearts overflowing with kindly feeling and social joy.

THE LUCY COBB.

Any parent or guardian who attended the commencement exercises of this institute, would wish his daughter or ward, under the noble influences which preside there. The school is in a flourishing condition, is highly attractive and most suitable for that training so necessary for young ladies. The principal is an accomplished lady, and an able instructress, and well deserves the confidence and support of those who desire to give their daughters all the polish and sound principles required in any circle of life. ## SENOIA HIGH SCHOOL.

Exercises and Concert.

SENOIA, GA., July 3, 1873.

Editors Constitution:

As your live paper evinces so much interest in the educational movements of Georgia, I have concluded to give you a brief notice of the commencement exercises of the Senoia High School.

Rev. A. M. Thigpen, of Newnan, preached the sermon on Sunday, 29th of June. His text, "Thy Kingdom Come," was the basis of a very learned and forcible discourse.

Monday was devoted to the

under the immediate charge of Miss Ida Hodnett. The exercises were exceedingly interesting. Miss Ida convinced the public that she had a peculiar adaptation to leading the infant mind into the portico of klowledge.

Rev. F. W. Baggerly addressed the children and parents, in his characteristic, racy style endeavoring to impress upon the young minds that they must paddle their own canoe.

Tuesday the examination of the more advanced students was completed. These students under Messrs. W. T. Read and T. E. Atkinson had made good use of their time and minds. At night the fully met the high expectations created by the morning exercises.

Wednesday morning the spacious hall of the high school building was well filled with the beauty, chivalry and intelligence of Senoia and vicinity.

THE SENOIR DEPARTMENT

regaled their listening ears with a rich repast of compositions and speeches, selected and original.

The morning hour was closed by an impromptu address from Rev. James B. Hunnicutt, of our town, who in physical weakness, reluctantly yielded to the unexpected call. This gentleman, in his usual earnest and emphatic style, made a timely appeal to the audience in behalf of a higher, broader, deeper and more solid education for the young men and ladies of the South. He wished to see the day when a graduate of a Southern college would not cast a longing eye to the better facilities of Northern or European universities, or fear to meet in intellectual combat the sons of any section.

The evening entertainment was to have been closed by an address from Rev. W. F. Lewis, the chosen orator of the day, but he failed to come, and his place was supplied by Captain J. E. Stallings, who, thus extemporized, treated the audience to what he called the cold-sauce of the repast. His speech was well received, and he dismissed the assembly in a fine humor with themselves, and a high appreciation of the blessings of a Georgia home, especially a home near Senoia.

The exercises throughout, both day and night, were greatly enlivened by music from Miss Grant and her class.

Wednesday night had been set apart for her grand concert. Long before the sun had shut his evening glories in, they began to come. Every available seat was soon occupied, then the aisles, windows, adjacent buggies and the terra firma for some distance around was jammed, packed and crammed. Such a sea of eager expectant faces it has seldom, if ever, been my fortune to behold.

As your correspondent is no amateur in music he will attempt no criticism upon this rich and rare entertainment.

Suffice to say that expectation was more than met; that mellifluous music filled the ear, and regal beauty charmed the eye, and together they melted many a tender heart.

[We regret the loss of the remainder of this letter, but the chief part is given.—EDS. CONS.]

CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE HOGANSVILLE INSTITUTE.

Grand Annual Concert.

HOGANSVILLE, July 3d, 1873.

Last night I had the pleasure of attending the Grand Annual Concert of the Hogansville Institute, presided over by that efficient, able Principal, Prof. N. McL. Williams, and must confess, experiencing one of the most pleasant evenings I have spent this season.

Notwithstanding the very warm weather the hall was filled to its full capacities with the elite of the pleasant little village, besides numerous visitors from a distance.

were conducted in good order and in such an excellent manner as to reflect great credit upon the officers and teachers.

The programme being divided into parts, opened first, with the a beautiful play in one act.

The "Echo Chorus," sung by a choir of sweet voices, was excellent. The little Fairies, attired in their exquisite costumes, sporting among the evergreens which decorated the stage, gave one an ideal of a real fairy land. The play was concluded by several pretty songs from the fairies.

Part second was vocal and instrumental music, including some of the choicest selections from the finest authors, showing a degree of research by the Principal of this department to make the occasion pass off pleasantly to all.

Mrs. Robinson has charge of the music department of this Institute, and judging from the meritorious manner in which the young ladies acquitted themselves, the school has secured the services of an excellent teacher over this division.

The pieces were performed so admirably that it was difficult to say who

DESERVED THE MOST PRAISE.

But we were particularly impressed with the beautiful song "The Brook," sung by Miss A. Moreland, "Sweetheart Polka," by Miss Lula Hopson, and that beautiful solo, by Leybach, entitled "La Somnambula," performed by Miss Genie Pullin. This was indeed a brilliant solo, and Miss P. justly merits much praise for such talent as was exhibited in its rendition.

Everything passed off smoothly, and the pleasant recollection of this entertainment, shall long remain treasured in memory. "M. J."

THE COURTS.

Proceedings of the City Court Yesterday—Criminal Matters before the Ordinary.

The City Court

Met yesterday morning at ten o'clock, Judge Cowart presiding. Only two criminal cases were tried.

William Spear, colored, was tried for larceny from the house. The indictment charged him with stealing $3 in money from the store-house of Mr. W. W. Blasingame, on the 17th of June, 1873. He was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs, or chain-gang for twelve months.

Joseph Martin, colored, was also tried for the same offense. He stole a pair of boots of the value of $10, the property of Y. W. Gray, from the storehouse of John F. Morris.

He was given his option between paying $75 and costs, or luxuriating in the chain gang for twelve months.

A number of vagrancy cases were nol pros'd, and Court adjourned to half past eight this morning.

The Court of Ordinary

Held a session yesterday for Probate purposes. On account of the presure of other matter we are compelled to defer giving the proceedings until our next issue.

The Justices' Courts

Were rather dull yesterday. Justice Hammond tried Max Bear for larceny after a trust. He was charged with selling and appropriating the proceeds of a mule belonging to G. E. Johnson. After a hearing the warrant was dismissed.

This morning at ten, Justice Munday will try a charge of assault with intent to murder, preferred by Mrs. Lillie Grant against Mr. W. H. Phifer. The parties are all white.

THE KNIGHTS OF JERICHO.—The "Atlanta" Lodge of this order held a meeting last night for the purpose of installing its newly elected officers for the ensuing term. The following is the list of officers:

J J McDaniel, Sir Knight Chief; J D Holmes, Sir Knight Vice-Chief; Miss Jennie Lively, Lady Preceptress; Elbert M Stanton, Sir Knight Chaplain; E H Hamilton, Secretary; F C Smith, Treasurer; R P Jackson, Marshall; Taylor Forsyth, Herald; J L Whitaker, Guard; J P Perdue, Sentinel.

F C Smith—Representative to the Grand Lodge which meets in Athens, Georgia, on the 30th of this month.

When the installation ceremonies had been completed the new officers were called upon for speeches, to which most of them responded and made able addresses. Mr. C. B. Thrasher, a visitor and member of the "Undine" Lodge of this order, made a speech of peculiar eloquence and beauty, and was asked by lodge to furnish a copy for publication. Refreshments, and a plenty of them, were on hand, and the balance of the evening was devoted to social pleasures. This lodge embraces many a pretty lady and gallant Sir Knight in its membership, and we wish it much success.

SCHILLER LODGE, I. O. O. F.—The following officers of Schiller Lodge, No. 71, were installed last night by acting deputy G. M. Henry Bohl

J. G. Eichberg, N. G.; A. Abrahams, V. G.; E. Langgesser, Secretary; W. Bender, Treasurer.

The following were appointed:

B Schwarts, Warden; C Brown, Conductor; C Pfeiffer, R S to N G; I Selig, L S to N G; H Rich, R S to V G; H Kissell, L S to V G; G W Kreiss, R Scene Supporter; A Schopp, Left Scene Supporter; P H Engelbert, I S G; M Marcus, O S G.

After the installation of officers Mr. Eichberg presented to P. G. H. Franklin, a gold headed cane in behalf of the Lodge, as a token of their esteem and appreciation.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES LAST SABBATH.

At the Second Baptist Church.

On Sunday night the Rev. Dr. Spaulding preached, by request, an exceedingly interesting sermon on Absolom, and one that cannot fail to accomplish good.

The character of Absolom was vividly portrayed, and his vaulting ambition set forth in all its enormity. The historical narrative, beginning with his youth, and ending with his death following close upon his triumphant occupation of his father's throne, prepared the minds of the congregation for the preacher's deductions and application. Among other observations was this that unrestrained youth leads to ruined manhood. The Hon Alexander Hamilton Stephens, in a speech delivered in 1864 by request of the Georgia Legislature, said substantially, that the vexed questions of every age was not so much its political as its social problems. The preacher urged parents should govern and restrain their children. From the sin of failure here flowed terrible evils.

Will the Cholera be Epidemic in Atlanta?

A response to this inquiry, which shall stand the test of time, would be invaluable; and if in the negative would quiet the apprehensions of many. The only guide we have is the history of the scourge as it respects localities. Judging from that, and it will not come to Atlanta. In none of its visits to this country has it done so, nor has it settled itself in such formations as are here and in this section.

In 1866, when last in the United States, there were cholera cases for days, perhaps even weeks, on the city hall square. The subjects were United States soldiers, transferred here from Louisville, Nashville and other infected places. There were deaths from it at our hotels. One was a gentleman well known to the writer, who resided in, and came from Memphis. It then, as now, was at Chattanooga. The writer was sojourning in Atlanta at the time; it was located on city hall square, in "stone's throw" of the cholera camp, and he felt no more apprehension than if it had been thousands of miles away.

Some persons do not understand how cases of cholera can occur in the city without spreading. It matters not what the reason may be, yet it has often happened—so often as to make it one of the laws of the great plague. So it is with yellow fever. In the year 1854, when this epidemic raged in Charleston and Savannah, deaths from it, of persons in those localities happened in various places.

In the city of Macon there was some ten or twelve, and one took place just across the street from where the writer's family resided. But no citizen of Macon was attacked, and there was no general apprehension, because all the well-informed understood this law of the disease—that cases must occur in an atmosphere favorable to its development, or there would be no other cases. The same is true of cholera from the teachings of the past. It would be contrary to all experience, then, for it to visit Atlanta.

There are those who think because Atlanta has not sufficient water and sewerage, we are in great danger from it. We were in no better condition in 1866, but did not have the cholera. It can be said we have more population now. That is true; but in the heart of the city, where there is most compactness, and most dirt, and about which the apprehension is felt, the essential features are the same as in 1866. The history of the cholera proves that the sanitary condition of places only increases the disease, when it appears, but does not originate it. Its origin or prevalence in particular localities depends upon other conditions. If a city is located in a cholera region, as demonstrated by experience, it will have the cholera, however cleanly. If not in such a region it will not have the cholera, although the sanitaries may be defective. The former we have lately seen proven by its jump from Nashville to the village of Greenville. The latter was proven in 1866 by its first prevalence at Chattanooga, and its nonappearance at Atlanta, although in seven hours' run of each other with frequent communication daily. To show the effect of soil and climate, I will state that when the cholera appears on the rice plantations, by removing the negroes to the piney woods close by, the disease would 'die out.' If the cholera locates itself in Atlanta, no place in the hard-wood country can rely upon its exemption. It must then go to the various towns on the different railroads leading from Atlanta. Hitherto, the granite, sand-stone and piney woods regions, free from lime, have been exempt. Why will they not so continue?

The only reason of suggestion is, that this cholera has originated in this country—it is now not a visitor from the East. This is true, and the conclusion from it is a sad one—that henceforth the lower valley of the Mississippi is capable of producing the Asiatic cholera, or the same type of cholera, which is the same thing. Its course hitherto has been from the east, (and the far east) to the west, but now, it travels from west to east.

Nevertheless, it has as yet appeared only in the cholera regions. So far, it has in this respect, proven true to its original law. It is not impossible it may violate its former law, as to the localities of its imitation, but it is extremely improbable. Every soil and climate have their peculiar diseases, and the cholera has shown itself obedient to this law. It is not more likely to invade the granite and piney woods regions, then it is for yellow fever to go to the mountains, or, the leprosy to become a disease if a northern latitude.

The cholera, so far, has baffled the skill of the most learned, both as regards its successful treatment, and the manner of its dissemination. Soon after the cholera of 1866, there was a convention of the most learned physicians of Europe, Asia and, perhaps, America, held at Paris, to see if the learning and experience of all the combined world would not establish some reliable theory; but, beyond the ascertainment of certain wonderful facts, as food for future reflection, I believe nothing practically definite was settled. It yet remains, in all its terror, and the patients in all their helplessness. In its awful presence, the bravest and most skillful physician is humiliated. R. H. C.

DISCIPLINE THE LIVER.—The liver is truly an "unruly member." Sometimes it is torpid and secretes too slowly, at other times it is unnaturally active and sends forth a perfect freshet of bile. Regulate this organ with Hostetter's Bitters, not with calomel or blue mass. Mineral excitants, in stimulating the liver, poison the blood, and their ultimate effect is terrible. The bitters, on the other hand, have a vitalizing and purifying, as well as a stimulating effect. They not only regulate the flow of bile, but infuse new life into the whole system. A good appetite and perfect digestion, a regular, natural habit of body, a sound condition of the nervous system, vivacity of spirits, increased bodily strength and power of endurance, and refreshing sleep are among the blessings they promote. The temperature of summer is a severe tax upon the digestive and secretive organs, and the bitters are never more indispensable than at this period of the year. d4w

Hood and Johnston.

A correspondent writing from the Alleghany Springs, Virginia, says:

Just now there are not more than one hundred and fifty people here (though nearly all the best quarters are engaged), and among them I find several distinguished families from the South. General J. B. Hood is here, with his wife and family, which is a thoroughly representative one. Mrs. Hood is a tall, elegant and beautiful lady. The General uses crutches, though a wooded leg supplies the place of the one he lost at Chickamauga, and the strength of his arm is impaired by the wound he received at Gettysburg. Otherwise he is as healthy, handsome and hearty as he ever was in his life. Though only married since the war, General Hood has four of the prettiest children I ever laid my eyes on—two of them twins—and all so near of a size that it is hard to tell which is the oldest. But what astonished me most were the nurses—four nurses to four children; and they all seemed to be busy—in fact, to have their hands full. Three of the nurses are as jet black as coal, and are young plantation negresses from Louisiana, while the fourth is an old plantation mammy, evidently a family relic, who will die as she has lived among her old people and her best friends.

Many a poor old Southern negro woman regrets the day she forsook her old owners, when emancipation proved rather a curse to her than the blessing for which it was intended. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, now visiting at Abingdon, has engaged rooms here, and, with his beautiful and accomplished lady, will spend the season here. And this is a coincidence—Hood and Johnston hobnobbing it together at the same watering place. Johnston, the most distinguished of all the living officers of the late Confederacy, Hood, the bravest and most gallant, who, by virtue of Jeff. Davis, superceded Johnston in command of the army at Atlanta and left the way open for Sherman's march to the sea. Had Johnston been in command the way would not have been so easy, and the obstructions might not have been curious enough to thwart the Lieutenant General Hood's design. But, I suppose, Hood and Johnston will meet as old companions in arms.

BYGONES WILL BE BYGONES, and they talked over the past as only two distinguished and great officers who have done their duty can afford to do.

☞ This is how the Louisville Courier-Journal looks at it: "They should quit abusing Pere Hyacinthe for marrying. They should remember that the fascinations of a Yankee widow traveling as the agent of a patent corset are not to be whistled down the wind as you would the charms of an ordinary woman traveling merely for fun."

☞ The latest instance afforded by a "fond mother" of her son's cleverness is said son's correcting her for saying that he was all over dirt. He said the dirt was all over him.

☞ A Buffalo girl, pretty girl, pretty and eighteen, has sold over five hundred sewing machines in the last two years. She travels with a horse and wagon, smiles when she leaves a machine, and sheds tears if anybody afterwards refuses to keep it. This does the business.

☞ A citizen of Connecticut, recently introduced to a newly married man, congratulated him warmly, and said: "Ah, these Litchfield county girls make clever wives. I've had three of them."

DANGER—At this season the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies then with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. Try it. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogmas will at least admit that a tonic and alterative, compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues. Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and Hostetter's Bitters is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

WHY WILL YE DIE?—Death, or what is worse, is the inevitable result of continued suspension of the menstrual flow. It is a condition which should not be trifled with. Immediate relief is the only safeguard against constitutional ruin. In all cases of suppression, suspension or other irregularity of the "courses," Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator is the only sure remedy. It acts by giving tone to the nervous centres, improving the blood and determining directly to the organs of menstruation. ## Dr. Calhoun's Liver Pills.

I AM engaged in the Manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Bilious Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last thirty-five years and has taken precedence over all other Family Preparations, by all that have used them. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supersede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Fulton County Prison for over seven years, when the number of prisoners ranged from 20 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incident to this climate. With but few exceptions, they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say, during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from Druggists, Merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, DYSPEPSIA, DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHOLERA MORBUS, BILLIOUSNESS and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a Southern climate, but yields readily to this preparation.

Price, 50 cents a Box
